HOME TRADE PLANS LAID

Dedicating themselves to the job of improving retail business in Richmond during the Christmas season and in the future, the "Shop in Richmond" committee recently named by the local Chamber of Commerce met for the first time with the board of directors of the Merchants' Association at a dinner at the Hotel Carquinez last night to map plans.

"It is a serious problem, but we can find means of meeting it if we pull together as now seems possible through the action of the Chamber of Commerce," said Garfinkle. "We have made a survey which demonstrates to us that only one-third of the money which rightly belongs in Richmond is spent in our local stores. The other two thirds goes to Oakland or somewhere else. It is our job

LODGE WILL FIGHT SUIT

Members of the Richmond Austrian-American Benevolent association at a special meeting called last night in Woodman hall voted to uphold the local lodge in the suit brought against it in superior court. Peter Kasovia, former treasurer, filed suit against the lodge asking for a writ of mandate ordering the return of records and his restitution to office as treasurer.

Lead Dollar Goes On Visit

For a number of years, Justice of the Peace Arthur Alstrom has used a lead dollar as a paper weight. Yesterday morning, in some mysterious manner, an eight year old lad, name withheld by the police, got possession of the lead coin, and took it to a local bank to get change. The bank kept the dollar and after questioning the lad for sometime, finally learned where it came from.

Richmond Citizens Urged To Vote Early

(Editorial)
Your duty to your home, and your country demands that you cast your vote today—and cast it early.

One of the heaviest elections that has ever occurred in this nation is predicted for today and voters can avoid congestion by casting their ballots as soon as possible.

The RECORD-HERALD was besieged last night by calls on how to mark the ballot for a Hoover-Curtis vote as the names of the candidates do not appear on the ballot. The vote is not direct but by electors. Thirteen of these are chosen in this state who in turn cast their ballots for the candidate they represent. In other words a vote for the following thirteen electors means a vote for Herbert Hoover: Harriet M. Works, Ben R. Meyer, Rolfe L. Thompson, Marshall De Motte, C. P. Redon, Harry K. Wolff, John A. O'Connell, Aurelia H. Reinhardt, L. L. Bennett, Fred H. Schauer, James F. Collins, A. W. McPherson and R. Y. Williams.

These same names also appear for the Prohibition party as they named the republican electors on their ticket. It is, however urged that all vote for the electors under the republican ticket as some question has been raised regarding the names on the prohibition ticket. To assure a Hoover ballot, vote for the 13 electors named on the republican ticket.

On your ballot in the first column the first group of electors are those of the socialist party, the second for the prohibition party and the third for the republicans. The democratic electors are in the second column. The name of H. A. Johnston appears in the third column of the ballot near the end.

This is probably one of the most interesting elections that this nation has ever seen. Votes and only votes will tell the story and all Richmond voters are urged to get theirs in early so that nothing will prevent them from being summed up in the grand total.

In addition to the election of a president, vice-president and a vote on the 21 state measures, recommendations on which will be found elsewhere, the only other issues of particular interest to this section is the naming of H. A. Johnston, a Richmond man, as a director of the East Bay Utility district.

PROPERTY OWNERS REQUEST COURT TO PREVENT PAYMENT

The aftermath of the bitter warfare that has been waged over the acceptance of the street work in the hillside section of El Cerrito, came last night when the members of the city council and the city officials of that town were served with summons in an injunction suit that was filed in the superior court of this county late yesterday afternoon.

The title of the suit is R. W. Hansen, M. Westergaard, F. J. Crigui and Andrew Shevlin for themselves and also for all protesters against the work plaintiffs vs. City of El Cerrito, municipal corporation, Phil A. Lee, C. W. Zimmerman, Ernest O'Brien, Ralph Beck, Peter Larsen as co-defendants, Corp. J. Simonsen, city treasurer, California Construction company, Elliot-Horne company, and Ross L. Calfee city engineer. $405,444.22 involved.

Water Figures Of Opposition Hit By Pardee

George C. Pardee, president of the East Bay Utility District board of directors, has issued the following pre-election statement for the East Bay Municipal Utility district:

Inasmuch as willfully juggled and therefore misleading figures concerning the district finances have been circulated in the East Bay cities in a last minute attempt to discredit the administration of our water supply project, I call attention to the fact that the juggled figures contrast the contract prices with the total cost of the various works constructed by the district, the intention being that the difference between the contract prices and the total costs presented are at least extravaganzas, if not worse.

The total costs, of course, are made up of the contract prices, plus the cost of lands, plus engineering expenses and inspection costs, plus legal expenses in condemnation suits, plus interest on bonds, etc., etc., none of which costs, except contracts, are mentioned in the figures distributed during the past week, which are purposely and willfully garbled.

Everybody who has built a house knows that the contract price is not the full cost of the house and the land and the architect's fees for superintending and the lawyer's fees for drawing the contract and the unforeseen and unforeseeable extras which are always encountered.

Signed:
GEO. C. PARDEE.

Council Gives Lucas Permit For Operation

Richmond's new transportation system for the eastern section of the city will be in operation before the week ends.

The permit to install a bus system, to care for the needs of the eastern section of the city, was granted by the council last night to W. Lucas of the Albany Cab company.

Lucas will file his bond and as soon as this is approved the new line will start.

The bus ordinance which made possible the granting of the permit, was adopted just previous to action being taken on the application of Lucas.

The running schedule will be on the hourly basis and will start at 6 a. m. and will end at midnight.

The fare to be charged has been fixed at ten cents.

The route to be traversed covers the following streets, starting at the northern city limits on San Pablo avenue, Barrett avenue, Civic Center street, Ninth, Twentieth, Macdonald, Twentieth street, Barrett, Sixteenth, Ninth to Tenth street, where it will connect with the ferry bus.

In connection with the transportation problems, on the suggestion of Councilman W. W. Scott a motion was adopted that the Southern Pacific be asked to route its ferry bus by Washington avenue.

Richmond Woman To Serve Term In Jail

MARTINEZ, Nov. 5.—Mrs. Maude Oare, 38, of Richmond was today sentenced by Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie to serve one year in the county jail for contributing to the delinquency of her 14-year-old daughter, Judge McKenzie in sentencing the woman denied a plea for probation and a request that she be sent to a state institution for treatment. The woman pleaded guilty to the charge last week.

After the woman's probation plea had been denied, Tsar N. Calfee, her attorney, characterized Mrs. Oare as neurotic and said she needs medical attention. Probation was also denied to William Hardwick, who pleaded guilty to a statutory charge involving Mrs. Oare's daughter, and ordered him committed to San Quentin penitentiary.

Byron Rollins, a second man accused of a statutory offense against the girl, pleaded guilty and asked for probation. The court fixed Nov. 13 as the date for his hearing.

MARTINEZ, Nov. 5.—Oscar H. Klatt, president of the American Toll Bridge company, today made formal application to the county board of supervisors for a franchise to build a $10,000,000 bridge across the San Pablo bay.

Hearing on the application for the span which will connect Richmond and San Rafael was postponed until Thursday morning. Press of business and the necessity of employment of County Clerk J. H. Wells on the election returns tomorrow caused the supervisors to delay the hearing after brief testimony had been presented.

The only witness summoned today was George Calder, engineer on the project, who told of the selection of the terminals at Point San Pablo on the Contra Costa county side and Rels Point, Marin county.

RECORD RUSH VOTING PLACES TO ROLLS STARTS OF RICHMOND DISTRICT

hungry mob in front of a soup kitchen, and the dash they are going to make for the voting booth tomorrow will break all records.

His majesty, the American voter, has been treated to royal promises for four months. He has been promised almost everything from a glass of beer and a chicken in the pot to a full garage.

Time for Choice
Now the time has come for him to make his choice, not only for president and vice-president, but for the entire U. S. House of representatives, one third of the senate, 34 governors and many state legislatures and state and county officials.

This campaign and the record-breaking registration which it has produced have provided a loud answer to those who complain of the apathy of American voters, who have demonstrated they will turn out for a good show.

For the major part of this show the electorate is indebted to Governor Smith, whose brown derby and personality have livened the campaign much as Roosevelt's spectacular Bull Moose movement with its red bandanas woke up the voters in 1912.

Women Factors

Women will be a decisive factor in many states this year. This is the third presidential election in which they have had suffrage but it is the first one in which they have taken interest enough to vote in impressive numbers. In some parts of the United States registrations of women outnumber those of men. They have never run more than 40 percent of the male registration and often less. Most politicians believe the outpouring of women this year is due chiefly to the prohibition issue and to the religious factor. In several states the republican leaders have said they will win because of the women. Mrs. Alvin T. Hart, vice-chairman of the republican national committee in charge of the women's campaign, has declared women will make Hoover's election a certainty.

However, many women of outstanding position, professionally and socially, have campaigned for Smith.

Keen Interest
This election should be one of the most honest because both sides will be exercising unusual vigilance to get their full vote registered. Election fraud flourishes chiefly in localities where one side is apathetic and where party workers are able to sell out to the other side and get away with it. This year, however, few polls will be left unguarded by watchful volunteers on either side and the hired workers will therefore be under surveillance as never before.

Each side ends the campaign confident of victory. Republican National Chairman Work and democratic National Chairman Raskob each claims victory by about 400 electoral votes. Hoover expresses confidence in the result provided everybody votes. Governor Smith says victory is in the air for him. Norman Thomas, the socialist candidate for president is the only one who doesn't claim he will win. He says Hoover will.

ELECTRICAL PERMITS
During the month of October the electrical inspector issued 51 permits and collected fees to the amount of $144.30.

Fire Loss For October $974

The fire loss on buildings and contents for the past month amounted to $974.66. Of this $974.66 was on structures and $100 on contents. The above information was contained in a report filed with the council last night by Fire Chief Cooper.

David Phillips Sent To Prison

MARTINEZ, Nov. 5.—David Phillips, 18, of Richmond, who according to police admitted a series of 32 burglaries in a month was today sentenced by Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie to state prison. Probation was denied.

Vote YES No. 6

Amendment No. 6 endorsed by the real friends of the children such as the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco the California Department of the American Legion, the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, the California Division American Association of University Women, the California Association of County City and District Superintendents of Schools, the Richmond Teachers' Association and many other similar associations. This is perhaps the most important and progressive measure on the ballot.

This is an Amendment, carefully prepared after an exhaustive study of the best practices in the various states, providing for the reorganization of the State Board of Education. The Board is to consist of ten members appointed by the Governor, confirmed by two-thirds vote of the State Senate and subject to removal as are all other civil officers under the Constitution. California has grown and the State Board now has charge of, in addition to a large school system, ten great institutions such as the Teacher Colleges. This requires a slowly changing Board to select a Director of Education who is fully qualified to address the lay board. At present, any person, qualified or unqualified, might be elected. The situation is worse than if the people should attempt to elect the President of the University by popular vote.

Blamed For Child Crime

Broken homes and the intermarriage of the feeble minded are the main causes of juvenile delinquency, according to Ollie Snediger probation officer of Alameda county who spoke before the annual reciprocity luncheon of the Richmond Parent-Teachers Association council yesterday in the Hotel Carquinez.

Snediger declared that 30 percent of the inmates of the county's penal institutions are feeble minded. "The whole root of the trouble is the laxity of our marriage laws which allows any type of person to secure a marriage license, regardless of physical and mental condition. All they seem to need is $2 for the license fee," he declared.

"A Fair Start in Life for Every Child" was the topic of an address delivered by Mrs. Charles R. Blake, president of the Richmond council. She cited several objectives of the P. T. A.: home learning, citizenship, vocations, leisure and character.

She concluded her address with the following poem entitled "The P. T. A.":

"P is a symbol of parents with arms around the child entwined. T is a symbol of teachers true arms outstretched, kind hearts true;

"A that parent and teachers together you see, the child between them guarded makes three.

"When parents and teachers together are working.

"No clouds into P. T. A. sky will be lurking."

Mrs. Edith Vollmer, president of the Sixteenth District P. T. A. addressed the group. Other speakers included Dr. C. R. Blake, city health commissioner, who told of the work being done at the Richmond health center to immunize children against diphtheria; B. X. Tucker, president of the Richmond high school; Frank Shallenberger, superintendent of the Longfellow junior high school; Roy Huffman of the Roosevelt junior high school and of the Teachers' association; W. T. Helms, city superintendent of schools; Miss Nora Ashfield, assistant superintendent of schools; Mrs. Charlton of Berkeley and others.

The program was opened by a group of contralto solos by Mrs. Harold Oliver Ellis, accompanied by Emil Esola and two piano solos by Emil Esola.

The session was attended by a crowd estimated to have numbered 103 and was the largest meeting ever held by the council here.

At the speakers table 22 honored guests were assembled. These included Mrs. Vollmer, president of the district; her mother, Mrs. N. Hamilton, Mrs. Ellis, Emil Esola, F. C. Shallenberger, B. X. GRIFFITH STARS JUVENILE PLAYERS

D.W. Griffith initiated Gardner James into the motion picture art but this young actor early quit the business for a life of travel and adventure.

Shipping as an ordinary seaman, he trotted the globe for several years, but again landing in Los Angeles, the films lured him and he is now seen in his latest characterization, an important part in Rex Beach's "The Mating Call" which the California theater will present for the last time today.

Before turning to the movies, James played in a number of Broadway stage plays, and on the vaudeville circuit in a dramatic sketch with Julie McCree. Both his father and grandfather were well known stage actors and although born in London, he came to New York while still a young man and entered upon his career.

When Richard Barthelmess decided to make "The Amateur Gentleman," James was cast in an important part and his work so impressed officials that he was placed under a starring contract with Inspiration Pictures, Inc. His specialty is juvenile characterization and it is in this he stars in the Thomas Meighan starring picture, "The Mating Call."

In "The Mating Call" James plays the role of Meighan's best friend who warns him of the planned attack of a secret order. Meighan is shown as a Florida farmer, disappointed in love, who seeks a companion at Ellis Island. Renee Adoree supplies his need and in the trouble and turmoil that ensues in the Florida home to which he takes her, they learn to love each other.

Stewart Warner Radio Features Single Control

Greater convenience as well as greater efficiency marks the current trend in radio improvements. For example, in the new Stewart Warner "300" series, tuning has been reduced to its simplest possible form, according to officials of the company.

Single dial control is used with a still further simplification in the elimination of all auxiliary tuning adjustment, such as antenna switches, or resonator controls. Stations are tuned in with one dial only. Volume is adjusted with a separate knob. The only other control is the off and on snap switch.

Stamped in Mack on the gold plated tuning dial are the regular dial index numbers. Wave lengths are calibrated accurately in red so that stations may be instantly tuned in. The tuning dial is illuminated from behind by a pilot light.

The V. G. Electric company 1314 Macdonald avenue, has the latest models of the Stewart Warner radios on display.

STREET LIGHT REQUEST

TARZAN THE MIGHTY

Revised by ARTHUR B. HENRY.

From an original series produced by UNIVERSAL PICTURES CORPORATION, in special arrangement with—

EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

Author of TARZAN OF THE APES, THE CAVE GIRL, etc.

Chapter III
BLACK JOHN PLOTS

It would have taken a far more clever plotter than Black John to keep Tarzan entirely in the dark. Something was afoot in the jungle. That he knew. What it was, was for him to find out. Swinging along from the ground to the tree tops where he might catch sight of what was going on, Tarzan's practiced eyes were arrested by something unnatural in the old trail. He descended to investigate. Treading gingerly he started to lift the ground foliage. It was wilted. In an instant he saw why. Underneath was hidden a pit trap.

Could it have been prepared for him? Tarzan smiled as he swung himself back into the tree. He would stick around and watch what happened. There was an atmosphere of something portentous in the jungle. The beasts seemed to scent it. They were restless, uncertain. Far-off somewhere, he could hear the faint echo of Tarzan's trumpeting.

Suddenly he heard the bird call. He sought quickly to place it. It was near. His eyes endeavored to penetrate the jungle screen. There was Bobbie, running along the old trail—nearer and nearer the trap—the very trap of which he had come to warn Tarzan. Tarzan shot out his coiled rope, caught another tree, pulled the rope taut, swung down on the end by one hand and with the free arm caught Bobbie, carried him on and up safe over the trap and landed on the limb of another tree over it.

There was no time for explanation. Tarzan with a mob of the natives in full cry was now on the old trail, thundering down seeking escape and running closer and closer to capture and perhaps sudden death.

Tarzan shouted a warning. Tarzan stopped, short, got it turned and crashed through the jungle it self another course.

Out on the limb Tarzan smiled to himself at the defeat of his enemies in the dark of time. The limb swayed and bent under him. At least he had caught the attention of Tarzan just in time, and had saved him.

There was a cracking and rending of the old trail.

Tarzan had just time to seize Bobbie as the limb of the tree tore itself loose and the two were dropped down straight below into the very trap that had been set for Tarzan.

Chapter IV
A PAWN OF PASSION

Tarzan landed, cat-like, on his feet in the bottom of the elephant pit, unscathed. Instantly he roused himself from the shock of falling and landing, shook himself like a wild animal and looked about on guard.

He caught sight of Bobbie, lying unconscious where he had narrowly missed one of the murderous pointed stakes prepared for Tarzan. Tarzan picked up Bobbie in one arm and climbed out of the pit. He peered cautiously about, saw the natives had fled, then struck out into the jungle carrying the boy. A few moments later he staggered with his burden into the hut. Instantly he began rubbing his head and hands to revive him.

In the village Black John full of anger and lust caught sight of Mary Trevor anxiously waiting for Bobbie. "Say nothing to her of the boy, her brother," he growled to her. "She will stroke over toward her cabin."

"Where's Bobbie?" faltered Mary backing away from him.

"Never mind about the boy, now. I have other things to talk of with you!" He leaned closer toward her and she backed away as far as the wall would permit from his repulsive self. "I have long wanted to make you my mate. Now I am going to claim you, before the tribe!"

"No! No!" She was horrified, filled with loathing. "Not yet!"

"Yes! Now! If you do not consent you will never see your brother again! I alone know where he is!"

Stunned, wide-eyed, Mary stared as he turned abruptly and stamped out of the cabin. What should she do? She felt she could not hold out against him very long.

What a night it was! Bobbie had not returned. Was he alive or dead? She could not get out of the cabin to give the bird call to summon Tarzan. She could not even search for Bobbie. And facing her was the nightmare of Black John and his imperious, evil, passion. Again and again she called upon heaven to return Bobbie to her. If she only had Bobbie she might save him from the jungle—anything was better than this living death.

"There's only one way to get your brother back," Black John had heard her prayers and entered. Too broken and worn-out to resist she no longer could struggle when he put his arms about her. Black John took it as consent. "I will tell the Patriarch," he decided gruffly. "We will hold the ceremony tonight!"

Mary made no sign. There was no hope now. Black John rose to go, leaving her crushed, with bowed head.

A few moments later he returned with the bearded Patriarch of the tribe and they began to arrange the wedding ceremonies in accordance with the tribal customs. Mary was dull and listless. Black John eyed her eagerly, covetously.

The day was worse than the night. She could not eat. She could not think. She could not even cry. She was too beaten it seemed, almost to fight.

Andrew, however, Mary blessed all day to the preparations for a terrible farce that marked the supreme tragedy for her.

Nightfall witnessed the village aglare with fires and flares. The tribe had assembled in a huge circle about the spot where the Patriarch sat by the central fire, leaving a huge cleared circle. Beside him sat Black John, the crafty and cunning.

Resistance was useless as Mary was led on from the cabin, a dusky black native on either side of her. In the firelight her beautiful white skin and delicately formed limbs gleamed against the blackness of the night. Black John's eyes gleamed as he rubbed his hands in anticipation of possessing anything as lovely as this girl in her scant leopard-skin. In the tribesman watched as he led past them.

"Dance!" thundered the arch.

"Dance!" prodded the black.

Though she felt like the night terror of the jungle, she would have welcomed it. Earth had opened up and swirled. Mary started, her dance tribe leaped forward in fascination. Black John beat his snuff on her as she swept around him, her master-to-be.

Mary met his gaze, quickly dropped her eyes from his. She could not bear even to look upon the monster. Yet she dared not stop. What tortures or indignities might be stored for her from the fanatical followers of Black John, once he spoke the word?

Round and round she danced as she had been instructed by the Patriarch. Never was a dance with more leaden, unwilling feet. Yet Mary could not have been ungrateful no matter how she tried.

She knew the eyes of both Black John and the Patriarch were upon her. There was nothing but pain and death to be accomplished by refusing the dance. Then what would become of Bobbie?

She ended the dance by throwing herself on the ground at Black John's feet. The Patriarch, in a tribal manner as she had been instructed. It was the outward sign that she gave herself to him.

"In crude, coarse triumph," he looked at the lovely girl at his scrawny feet. Then he slowly rose until his bloodied nose and torso towered above her slight form.

"In accordance with our custom, this woman has 'danced off' her betrothal. And I claim her before you all!" Black John moved forward a step or two in the center of the circle. "And, as such, I will meet any of you in any contest for her!"

"Black John," panted a beautiful defiance and looked toward the circle. Mary, too, now for the first time raised her head. She also looked around as if hoping someone, even a burly black or a scarred, might offer himself to do battle for her.

"None made a movement," Mary was disappointed. Black John triumphant. With a cheaply regal flourish he raised his hand and raised her up. Mary was instantly in a state of revolt. She felt a cold shiver convulse her body at the sight of Black John's eyes.

What a hollow mockery was all the ceremony. Black John was only too real this night. Mary of Devil.

Was she Black John's? She felt herself swaying

In the first game of the evening, a junior league game, the Hi-Y outfit defeated the Federal Outfitters, 25 to 13.

The "major league" game resulted in a 27 to 16 victory for the Mechanics Bankers over the Santa Fe Indians.

The third, and last game, was a walk away, murder or what have you for the McRacken's Clothiers over LaMoine Drugists.

In the course of the evening's festivities, the Clothiers piled up a 28 to 4 victory over the La Moine five.

For the Indians, Lewis scored the highest number of points—three buckets and a free throw.

Although outclassed, the La Moine Drugists almost refused to be beaten by the Clothiers. The first half found the score 11 to 4 in favor of the Clothiers.

In the second half the Clothiers started to sink their points. Gillingham shot 13 points in the last half and with the bucket and free shot in the first half brought his score up to a total of 15 points for the night.

Weather Man To Be Stationed On Carquinez Bridge

MARTINEZ, Nov. 5.—Major E. H. Bowie, of San Francisco county, the weather observer, has designated Carquinez bridge as an official government weather observation post, according to George Calder, vice-president and general manager of the American Toll Bridge company.

Reports on fog conditions will be supplied chiefly by the bridge station so that aviators may be advised, Calder said. Charles G. Clyne, bridge manager, has been designated as observer by Major Bowie and all data supplied will be given to the government gratis.

Major Bowie plans the installation of a "fog light" at the bridge toll house to focus on clouds so the fog density and height can be determined.

The supremacy of the United States, from a manufacturing standpoint, is forcefully emphasized by the large number of "Made-In-America" products that are sold in better class Department Stores from the Atlantic Coast to the Pacific Seaboard.

Nationally-known Brands of dependable Merchandise are "Trade-Marked," as a protection to the public—so that consumers may not be imposed on.

TRADE AT HOME COMMITTEE MEETS

(Continued from Page 1) to sift this matter to the bottom find the cause and apply the proper remedy. Through the appointment of the special committee from the Chamber of Commerce, I feel certain we can do it.

Garfinkle launched the suggestion that stores might be taken to secure a shoppers' pass on the Key System street cars giving a 15 cent round trip fare from Albany at least once a week, putting Richmond on a par with Oakland, so for as Albany shoppers are concerned, it is understood that this will be discussed at an early meeting to be called by Garfinkle at which plans will be laid for the placing of such a suggestion before the railroad commission.

Survey Suggested
Renwick advocated making a thorough survey to ascertain possibly how many people work in Richmond and live elsewhere; what the payroll is in Richmond and what amount of money is being spent in the local store.

Richmond streets will be gay with Christmas decorations, early in December, according to plans outlined at the meeting. All the merchants present were enthusiastic over the plan of decorating the streets again this year, many favoring a more elaborate scheme of decoration even than has been used in former years. Details of this are to be worked out by a small committee of merchants.

Party For Children
The traditional Santa Claus will again be seen on the streets during the Yuletide season, and the annual Christmas party for children will be repeated this year, possibly with the cooperation this time of some of the service clubs. It was announced.

Garfinkle said another meeting of the joint committees from the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' Association will be held in the near future.

EL CERRITO TO REPAIR BAD STREETS

Repairing of practically all the streets in bad condition was ordered by the council of El Cerrito at its meeting Monday night on the recommendation of the street commissioner Peter Larsen.

Larsen stated that he had made a survey of the condition of the streets in El Cerrito and recommended that the following streets be repaired: Eleventh, Gladys, Liberty, Donal, Plank Lane, Waldo, Eleventh, Kearney, School and Cypress. Larsen estimated that it would take about 75 yards of rock for the work.

Application of W. B. Coffin for a permit to operate a taxi at Stone Junction was referred to City Attorney J. H. Peters for one week.

A communication from Charles G. Kauffman stating that the resolution passed by the council of El Cerrito a week ago making it compulsory for all matters to come before the council in writing and that they must be in the city clerk's office on Thursday previous to the meeting night was unconstitutional was placed on file.

Mayor Phil A. Lee said the resolution was passed so the members of the council should familiarize themselves with subjects to come before the council so they could be acted on at the meeting.

A special committee meeting will be held by the members of the council this evening at 7:30 to consider a plan for the repairing of Barrett avenue. Councilman Peter Larsen reported that plans for repairing had been made and no estimate could be given. The councilmen will decide whether to patch up the street or resurface it and will probably call for bids on the work next Monday.

Councilman Charles Zimmerman reported that he had nothing to recommend on installing signal arms on San Pablo avenue for the protection of the school children crossing the street as the El Cerrito P. T. A. is holding a meeting this week to discuss the matter.

Report of councilman Charles Zimmerman that the roof on the building being used by the Boy Scouts was in need of repair and that building should be put on the outside was referred to the building inspector to get an estimate on the cost of the work.

On the recommendation of Councilman Peter Larsen the city attorney was instructed to draw up an ordinance creating a plan for the city, which will make recommendations to the council in regard to zoning parks and play grounds. The ordinance will be submitted to the council next Monday night.

JOHNSTON AIDS URGE VOTE TODAY

A last minute call to voters not to overlook the proposition of electing directors of the Eastbay Municipal Utility District today, was sent out yesterday by Fred N. Morcom, chairman of the Henry A. Johnston committee. The importance of the presidential election and the 21 proposals on the state ballot, it was felt, might overshadow the matter of electing Utility District directors.

"The committee, backed by mayors of the Eastbay cities and hundreds of community leaders in all parts of the district, take this last minute opportunity to urge Johnston upon the attention of the electors," said Morcom. "His election at this time is vital to the interests of the district. We wish to call attention to the fact that the chief executives of most of the nine cities making up the district have considered the matter important enough to give Johnston their strong personal endorsement, and several of the mayors have taken the stump for him. Voters can safely follow the lead of these thoughtful public officials in this matter."

Dr. George C. Pardee, president of the district, issued a final plea for Johnston, that he may have a full board of thoughtful, constructive men to help work out the problems ahead of the district.

"The voters are asked to make a highly important decision," said Dr. Pardee. "I sincerely hope they will cast a majority vote for Henry A. Johnston, who, in my opinion, possesses the qualification necessary to act as a director of the Utility District."

Among the mayors of the Eastbay cities and other community leaders who are behind Johnston are the following:

Frank Otis, mayor of Alameda.
Louis C. Green, mayor of Albany.
Paul G. Lee, mayor of El Cerrito.

E. E. Blockman, Berkeley.

Frank Berg, councilman, Berkeley.

HEAVY COUNTY HOOVER VOTE PREDICTED

"There is every indication that Contra Costa county will poll a majority vote for Herbert Hoover of 'from 1800 to 2500,' declared Arthur A. Alstrom, secretary of the Richmond Hoover club and republican county central committeeman, who returned from a tour of the county yesterday.

"During the past two weeks, there has been a distinct turning of the doubtful voters," Alstrom said.

"Richmond will make a better showing for Hoover in proportion to the number of voters than any other section in the county. While the situation several weeks ago was not so bright, I found yesterday that voters throughout the county have been giving serious thought to the things that effect Contra Costa county and will go to the polls to cast their ballot for Hoover."

AS THE WOMEN SEE IT

According to a recent dispatch from Washington the republican chieftains are highly gratified over the preponderance of Hoover sentiment among the women voters of the nation. That sentiment should develop in this direction was a foregone conclusion.

It was a foregone conclusion not so much because Mr. Hoover did or said this or that specific thing, or because the platform of his party made this or that declaration. Rather it was because women are possessed of an instinct which is older than politics or parties, the instinct that enables them to strip every situation of the unessentials and to interpret the essence of it in terms of those things that are foremost in their hearts and minds.

They have interpreted and will continue to interpret from now until election day, the issue of this campaign in terms of the security of their homes and the welfare of their children. And Mr. Hoover, being the manner of man he is, his record as the greatest humanitarian of modern times being what it is, and his ways of thought being what they are, it was inevitable that the overwhelming majority of the womanhood of the nation should rally behind his standard. Above all things, Mr. Hoover represents security. Here is the protective instinct at work and driving toward its goal with all the precision of Aristotle's syllogism.

In addition to this millions of women voters will be influenced by their own conclusions from the records of the two parties in the domain of progressive legislation in behalf of womanhood, childhood and the home.

By this test, Mr. Hoover can point to a party record seldom equalled by any country at any time. It is a record that ranges all the way from the enactment of the Equal Suffrage Amendment, which established political freedom of women, to the recent legislative declaration of their economic equality through the statute guaranteeing equal pay for equal work, irrespective of sex, in the government service. It ranges all the way from the large body of legislation safeguarding the wholesomeness of food and meat used in the home, to the statutes setting up governmental bureaus consecrated wholly to the welfare of motherhood and childhood.

Therefore, we say again: It was a foregone conclusion that the women voters should show a preponderance of preference for Mr. Hoover. And when the ballots are counted we shall be very much surprised if the preponderance is not far in excess of what the republican chieftains have hoped for, even in their most optimistic moments.

Speaking of "whispers," there's an old whispering standby that we haven't heard in this campaign. It is the one which credits one candidate or another with having said that "a dollar a day and a pot of beans is enough for any workingman."

Most of the humble workmen of the country are too busy driving their six-cylinder cars to stop and listen to any prosperity or calamity talk.

Great Britain is said to be very much relieved by our naval note, which shows what the worry of a guilty conscience will do to you.

A German firm which went into Russia with a concession granted by the Reds five years ago has just come back home broke? Who's next?

It is said that in Great Britain all parties are going after the flapper vote. We presume that to mean all the girls between 21 and 61.

From the noises and reverberations which we hear from the Southwest it must be that Texas is taking this campaign seriously.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME

BEAUTY

I have a letter on my desk from a girl who writes that, although she tries to take the best possible care of her skin and even has gone to a physician to determine whether or not her health is all it should be, her skin is constantly defaced with blackheads and sometimes white ones.

At the end of her letter she adds that she is troubled with dandruff and asks for a remedy for this condition.

It is possible, of course, that she has some skin disease which should be attended to by a dermatologist but the last part of her letter gave me a possible clue to her difficulty. Frequently the skin of the face and neck will be irritated by falling dandruff and it may be that when she has cleared up the one condition, the other will right itself.

An ointment which, if used sparingly every day, may help to kill dandruff can be made by any druggist of one dram of precipitated sulphur, twenty grains of salicylic acid, and one ounce of ointment of rose water. After six or seven such treatments, the head should be shampooed carefully with a lathered pure soap and soft water and the scalp massaged dry.

Blackheads are pesky things and the bane of many women's existence. They're so easy to acquire—and such a nuisance to get rid of! To keep yourself free of them, you must watch your skin carefully and keep it clean and healthy. Cleanliness is the most important step in preventing their appearance and it behooves every woman who wants clear, lovely skin to find out the correct method of cleansing her skin and then to follow it daily.

BOYER SHOULD BE RE-ELECTED DIRECTOR OF THE UTILITY DISTRICT

Certain interests are spending thousands of dollars in an effort to prevent the re-election of James H. Boyer to the office of Director of the East Bay Municipal Utility District, which position pays no salary.

There are five members of the Board of Directors, and a majority can pass any resolution or ordinance. What is it that Director Boyer can do or say that makes it worth thousands of dollars to certain interests to prevent his finding out and informing the people what goes on in the utility district?

An argument has been advanced that Richmond should have representation on the board. This is true. But it is a well-known fact that if anyone has the courage to disagree with Dr. Pardee he immediately becomes a minority member of the board and is classed as an "obstructionist." If he says "aye" every time the roll is called he is nothing but a "yes-man." In either event Richmond would be without representation regardless of who held the office.

The records of the District and letters from Director Boyer to the Richmond Chamber of Commerce and local merchants prove that throughout his six years service as director he has vigorously urged the purchase of the millions of dollars of supplies used by the District and its contractors from our local merchants and manufacturers, and time and again has demanded that employment be given to the people whose taxes are paying for the project. Many of our merchants, as well as our newspapers, have profited greatly by his work for the District.

In recognition of his efforts the Non-Partisan Political Federation of Labor of Alameda County and the officers of nearly every improvement club in the East Bay Cities have endorsed his candidacy for the office.

Is it a detriment to his candidacy that Director Boyer has opposed the extravagant expenditure of millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money, which will result in the Mokelumne Project costing approximately nine million dollars more than the original bond issue, and which has necessitated a tax levy this year of $650,000 in addition to all other taxes? Think of the six million dollar loss to the taxpayers in the faulty plans for the construction of the Lancha Plana and Lafayette dams!

If you want a man who will vigorously scrutinize every expenditure of money and strive to keep down your taxes and water rates, and who will refuse to be a "yes-man," then
